FOREWORD

We, the class of "64," the first in six class, invite you to become an honorary member; to share our happiness and sadness, our scholastic and extra curricular hours, our trials and tribulations. Your passport is this yearbook.

We have learned much and have much to learn; but from our first year to our sixth we have enjoyed ourselves, and we hope that through this book, you can join us.

Dedication

Now that we, the class of '64, have reached our final year of high school, we want to give recognition to the person whom we feel has done the most for us as a class by dedicating our yearbook to her. During our first impulsive years in high school, she contributed original ideas for projects and instilled in us the incentative to work together in order to achieve our goals. We owe much of our success to our advisor and friend, Miss Ilgenfritz. Thank you for the many hours and great effort that you have spent in our behalf.

Congratulation Seniors

You have attained another milestone along the pathway of life. It is my sincere hope that we have helped you to achieve some degree of success.

We suggest that in establishing future goals you set the course of your lives by these three stars:

*Sincerity

*Courage

*Unselfishness

From these flow a host of other virtues.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRINCIPAL
TO
THE CLASS OF 1964

As you leave our sheltered, protected, formal public school program, we hope the knowledge gained here, at home, and in church, will help you become successful men and women and a blessing to your fellow men.

The ingredients of academic knowledge, common sense, maturity, spiritual awareness, ambition, and courage, properly mixed, will produce an end product desirable to you and all mankind.

We adults feel quite secure knowing you, America's future, are capable and interested in providing outstanding leadership.

ENGLISH

The aim of the English Department is to stimulate an interest in the student to learn more about his own language. In order for a person to be successful in today's world he must be able to communicate with others. The English Department strives to teach the students the fundamentals of English so that they will be able to communicate with others.

Literature, as a part of English, attempts to open the minds of the students to the knowledge obtainable in books. Not only does the student learn to find knowledge in books, but, also he learns about the unlimited enjoyment in reading them.

MATH

The mathematics curriculum of West York consists of studies in the fields of business, college preparation, and general mathematics. The goal of the department is to assist the student in recognizing the relationship of mathematics to other fields of study, to develop mathematical behavior which meets the needs of a good citizen and an intelligent consumer, and finally to gain an appreciation of the importance and functions of mathematics in the development of societies.

GUIDANCE

The adjustments which must be made by a student during his progression from elementary school to senior high and from high school into the world cannot be made alone. The Guidance Department strives to aid individuals academically and personally; thus, it holds high responsibility in the school. By serving the student body, the members of the Guidance Department are in a unique position to prepare future adults for society. Guidance counselling, utilized by students and parents alike, is attempting to harmonize the difficult relations between students and adults.

SCIENCE

Today, science is instrumental in the lives of students. It is taught because of a need for general scientific literacy, because of the value we attribute to critical thought, and because of our dependence upon scientists and engineers. Science is not a course to be memorized, but one in which students initiate studies that will develop understanding and thoughtful behavior and action. A good background in the field of science helps a student to better understand and appreciate the earth, its inhabitants, and the universe. A student can learn to change and control his environment or simply adjust to it. Knowing, understanding, and appreciating science will contribute to a student's educational and vocational guidance; and it will be useful in working with care and precision. The opportunities offered in the many sciences develop an interest and awaken the curiosity of students.

SOCIAL STUDIES

A sense of understanding is the key aim of our Social Studies department. In the tense situation of a modern world, it proves necessary for us to know and understand our fellow man. A person who can understand the problems of his fellow man as well as his own, will be able to conduct himself as an intelligent thinking citizen of a democratic society.

It is the goal of the Social Studies Department to instill in the minds of our students a true interpretation of a democratic government. As citizens, we must be able to understand the conception of a democratic government in order for us to obtain its full benefits.

Mental abilities must be linked with physical coordination to complete a successful personality. Coordination, endurance, leadership: all are benefits derived from education in its physical aspect. Leadership and consideration are encouraged during a student's participation in health, physical, and safety education. To function properly, an intelligent mind must be correlated with a healthy body. It is the aim of the West York Area physical education department to create such a situation.

ART AND MUSIC

Our art courses encourage creative expression and stimulate the pupil both emotionally and mentally. It allows the student to grow individually which is necessary in the society in which he will live.

The music course teaches students to work together, and it gives them a solid foundation in the expression of music that will stay with them throughout their future. It provides a talented student with an opportunity to express himself both emotionally and socially.

MODERN LANGUAGES

The aim of the Language Department of West York is to give the student an education not only in the grammar and conversational aspects of a language but also to further the knowledge in the fields of geography, history, and cultures of the given countries.

A student participating in the modern language curriculum receives a comparative view between the United States and the country he studies. He also engages in situations pertaining to daily life such as meals, travels, etc. This method of learning develops in the student an attitude of concern for the common welfare and his responsibility toward world harmony.

HOMEMAKING

"A home is where the heart is." If a home is to be a happy one there must be harmony between its occupants. Such is the objective of the homemaking course. It prepares a girl for the many responsibilities facing her in her future home. Homemaking attempts to teach such qualities as planning a budget best suited to her needs, managing and caring for a home, caring for the sick, and many others just as important but too numerous to mention.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The Industrial Course at West York offers to students an opportunity to further their interest in the mechanical world of tools and machinery. The purpose of this department is to instruct the students in subjects that will prove beneficial to their future occupations.

It is the goal of this department to stimulate ability in this area. The department hopes that in developing this ability, it will encourage creative tendencies in this field for the student.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Idealism in the world must be supported by realism; great ideas must be financed by practicality. In business education a student is taught the practical, fundamental principles of thoroughness, neatness, accuracy, and reasoning. Business, the basis of our economy, must be served by skilled executives and secretaries; the training of these students is the work of the business education department. The attainments of a business student should include a sense of order, ethics, and business skills.

CLASS POEM

VOLUME 64

The final page is written by the class of '64.
The memories that their book contains will linger ever more.
Our high school days are over, and now our future calls.
We'll ne'er forget the fun we've shared within these dear old walls.
Some of the pages are blotted, but these are very few.
The rest were written carefully by friends and classmates true.
From mistakes we've made we hope we've learned to tell what's right and wrong,
And once we think of you West York, life's road won't seem so long.
That treasure is the knowledge that will pay our future's debt.
Lest our farewell be saddened by the thought that you'll forget,
Let's bow our heads and thank the Lord for friends through you we've met.
We now inscribe our memory in the halls of West York High,
And hope that in the hearts of all it will never die.
Goodbye, farewell, though we must part and go our separate ways,
We'll never forget dear West York High, where we spent our high school days.

ISABEL MARTIN

WE MAKE A LIFE BY WHAT WE GIVE

CLASS SONG

ALWAYS, MEMORIES

*Graduation Day,
Now we must go our way.
We'll not forget the times gone by
Spent at West York High.

Like the rising sun
Our future has begun.
You have taught us all we know,
What we've learned, how to grow.
West York, our school.
Learning to live for tomorrow;
Living to learn as we borrow, Mem'ries.

To the friends we've left
May you find true success.
Strive in all that you hope to do,
And your dreams will all come true.

Aways mem'ries, West York.

OUR CLASSMATE

Eva's father, Hans, her younger brother, Matthias, age 5, and her younger sister, Elisabeth, age 7, are at a beach on an island in the North Sea near Holland.

Eva's mother, Giesela, is posing with her youngest daughter Elisabeth on their balcony.

FROM ABROAD

I am very glad that I had the opportunity and the privilege to be the Exchange Student at West York Area High School. It has been a much shorter year than I thought it would be, and I certainly learned a lot about the United States and the American people. I will always remember my stay here in York, and I will never forget how nice the class of 64 always was to me and how much fun we had together. I want to thank all of you both students and teachers, and especially the Stough family for the wonderful year I spent here in York.

Ich mochte euch allen, die ihr meine Freunde gewdrden seid alles Gute fur die fukunft wunschen und hoffe dab wir uns spater einmal wiedertreffen.

The Senior Class surprised Eva on her birthday with a cake and an all expense paid shopping spree.

Eva with ther American family: Mr. and Mrs. Barnard Stough, Sue, and Steve.

Eva resided at the Stough home at 2121 Orange St. during her stay in the United States.

CLASS

"We hope we will be remembered for our presentation of the first school flag."

"The Jets wait impatiently at Doc's for the Sharks to arrive."

From out of ninth grade and junior high school we thundered into the dark, mysterious, and enchanting world of tenth grade and the beginnings of the mature atmosphere of senior high. At least this was our opinion then, although now somewhat different. With our minds brimming over with scientific matter from general science we met one Mrs. Golgan and her band of cutthroats: the platyhelminthes, coelenterateas, poriferas, anthropods, and trynossauras Rex's. We were asphyxiated with the formaldehyde and stunned with the pop quizzes. I feel our whole lives were altered with that course. Our humble thanks to you, Mrs. Golgan. (This probably isn't the feeling of those who flunked, however.) Besides Biology, we had "Parlez-Vous Francais?" for the first time, a repeat performance of "Hola, Isabel!", and many of us journeyed into second year algebra risking our very necks and grades. This was the year we had our illustrious football coach for history. We mixed history with football, and came out knowing that Hammurabi and Alexander the Great were tied for the most touchdowns in the National Football League in 1492. This was also the year that we graduated from those warmed-up kid stuff gym classes and bounded into sophomore gym classes. We were all 95 lb. weaklings when we went in and under the expert guidance training of the gym teachers we came out 90 lb. weaklings. Right Kraber?

Now one might think that with all our curricular activities we had no time for wise and cute money making activities. Quite the contrary. We were quite avaricious (this is a 12th grade vocabulary word, we didn't even know how to pronounce it in 10th grade). We sold peanuts. Next came the presentation for the first time in West York's history, the dynamic Del-Chords, in a dance entitled "That's Just It." Most people came just to find out why we called it this. They soon found out that we didn't know either. Nevertheless, the Del-Chords rocked in front of a packed lobby decorated like the famed Peppermint Lounge, complete with doorman. This was one the chaperones are likely not to forget. Fresh from two victories we moved on, this time into the realm of drama, and . . . as Hamlet so justly put it, "The play's the thing that will catch the conscience of the king," so it was in tenth grade when we presented "A Place for Us" based upon the immortal "West Side Story." We tackled this Broadway play with the masterful direction of Mr. Robert Koller and with the precision choreography of Miss Joyce Curry. The senior class will be indebted to these two great directors without whose invaluable assistance the play would not have been. It is this historian's belief that this was the most difficult and the best done play ever to be presented at West York. To those who saw it, who will forget Jim Schaffer's bird-like singing, Sue Crouse's hair and talented acting. The Sargeant Krupke song, the dance in the gym, the glow of accomplishment after the final curtain, and the wild cast party afterwards. We shall all look back upon this production with our fondest memories and with our somewhat prejudiced viewpoints. After the play, with the funds from our play and dance, we contributed to the school a beautiful flag with our school's new crest upon it. It can be now seen standing on the stage. This was our way to show our appreciation to the school authorities for their gracious help during 10th grade and to show just how proud we were of our school.

Could we do no wrong? This question was quickly answered when report cards were distributed for the first, second, and third times. Finally the time came when we got our class rings. Seeing them made us feel more united and a little prouder of our school and class than we already were. With our rings in our possession, we promptly began losing them, bothering the secretaries in the office for information about the lost ones, and giving them to that special someone. (The first one the far better fate for a class ring.) When we look back upon our memorable sophomore year we must acknowledge that without the expert guidance of our class advisor, Miss Ilgenfritz, we all know we wouldn't have gotten as far as we did. Our sincerest gratitude to Miss Ilgenfritz for her unselfish generosity in dealing with our class. We were proud to have you for our advisor. This was indeed a year to remember. A year of goals and achievement. A year of aspiring and learning. The year the Isley Brothers recorded "Shout," and the great days of Reliance. A year of prominence in each one of our lives. At last tenth grade was finally behind us.

"Bernardo and Anita prepare Maria for her first American dance."

"When Maria and Tony meet, they create their own special world."

CLASS

Without any further adieu we hastily, perhaps a bit hesitantly, trekked into the unknowns of that abyss of intrigue, namely eleventh grade; and for most of us, except for one Hamone, we met with repeats. During eleventh grade we made friends with Robert Boyle, Pythogoras, Beowulf, John Birch, and Marx: in that order. Most of us made enemies with the flame tests, the Marine tests, vocabulary cards, KNO_3, valences, cafeteria food, our first questions, and our grades from last Tuesday. Most of us rekindled our friendship with Shakespeare. Some willingly; most unwillingly. French was harder that year, and there were some of us who just couldn't meet with the requirements. However, we did love our verb forms as much as we do female forms. From out of Biology, we were thrust into the land of charcoal tests, schemes, redox methods, bunsen burners, acid stains, and amorphous sulfur. And all the more we suffered. To Barry-Larry-Garry our thanks. And to those who didn't get their bunsen burners lit until the last day, all we can say is it was their dad-burned fault. In eleventh English we were introduced to audio-visual aids in class for the first time. Those vocabulary cards certainly were cute, even with orange juice stains on them. And we finished Macbeth at the record breaking pace of almost four class periods.

Our annual all-night doughnut sale was our favorite project.

HISTORY

We kept making money in eleventh grade which is very unusual, of course. We had a very messy doughnut sale, and a somewhat messy class play. The Del-Chords wailed for a second time on February 16, 1963 at the West York lobby in a dance called "That's Just It Again," It was probably the best class dance ever held at W.Y. and we made money so that's just it.

While everyone was wondering if they would get their unknowns finished we had the Junior-Senior Prom. This well-planned affair was held at the beautiful York Country Club, and all that attended had a very enjoyable time even if we did eat rabbit cookies. I suppose this was a reminder that we weren't as old as we thought we were that night. After the dance I am sure all of us went straight home.

Eleventh grade was a year of trial. A year of indecision. A year of bewilderment. A year of glorious times and a year to remember. One more step has been achieved on our climb to twelfth grade, and with a year like eleventh we had the experience and little more maturity to go on to our goal. It should be stated right here, for all to see, that eleventh grade was a glimpse of what was to come. A glimpse we all tremendously enjoyed. What would life be without eleventh grade?

REVIEW OF THE

Events of 1963 were sadly clouded by the assassination of President John Fitzgerald Kennedy. Riding in triumphant popularity, the President was fatally struck by two bullets, supposedly from the Italian rifle of Lee Harvey Oswald. His stunned wife cradled the dying President's head on the way to the Dallas hospital where he died. Also wounded by the accused assassin was Texas governor, John Connolly. The gloomy November weekend had begun. The United States became a nation of shocked mourning; life took on a subdued aspect as Americans tried to grasp the full impact of the rifle shots in Texas. Television cameras followed events with sometimes depressing diligence. On the plane carrying the President's body, the executive power was transferred to Lyndon Baines Johnson, who took the presidential oath while widowed Jacqueline Kennedy watched. In a short time, glaring Washington lights gleamed on the bronze casket as it was lifted from the plane. President Johnson, with his wife beside him, made a terse, solemn speech to the nation whose heavy responsibility now rested on his shoulders.

Violence did not end on the day of the President's assassination. On Sunday, November twenty-fourth, before the eyes of television viewers, another shot rang out; and Lee Harvey Oswald fell, fatally wounded by Jack Ruby. Ironically, the accused assassin died in the same hospital in which the President died.

Monday, November twenty-fifth, tradition gave a semblance of order to a turbulent atmosphere. Slowly, in stately solemnity, the funeral procession marched. John F. Kennedy was given a military funeral in Arlington National Cemetery. He was surrounded by his family, his contemporaries, and the sorrow of his country.

Death also took a great religious leader from the world. In Rome, Pope John XXIII died after a prolonged illness. Pope John's reign was the shortest since Pope Pius VIII in 1829. With six ballots the eighty cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church elected John's successor; he was Pope Paul VI. The new pope showed his awareness of the world by making an historic visit to the Holy Land, where he was overwhelmingly received. His visit was an attempt to close the gap between branches of the Catholic Church, and to promote worldwide Christian unity.

Other deaths among the famous personalities of the world included: Dick Powell, actor; John W. Vandercook, reporter; ZaSu Pitts, comedienne; Estes Kefauver, political figure; Clifford Odets, playwright; Diana Churchill; Adolphe Menjou, actor; Elsa Maxwell, famous party-giver; and Dinah Washington, blues singer.

An attempt at smoothing world problems was made with the signing of the nuclear test ban treaty. The treaty was signed by world powers including Russia, the United States, Great Britain, and Japan. The European exception was France, headed by General Charles de Gaulle. The treaty was called "a shaft of light" in world discord by President Kennedy. Major United States Senate objection was expressed by Senator Barry Goldwater.

West Germany's aging Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a staunch Gaullist, was replaced by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, an Atlanticist. West Germans were briefly united with East Berlin friends and relatives during the Christmas holidays. Poignant scenes of joyful meetings made recognition of the divided country more painfully realistic.

Africa was beset by problems of internal dissention and violence. In the troubled country only the Western sector seemed relatively calm. Violence was particularly prevalent in Ethiopia, Tanganyika, and Somalia. Communist agitation, the cause of much disruption, resulted in the overthrow of Zanzibar.

In Great Britain, the Conservative Party became increasingly aware of the Laborites, headed by Harold Wilson. Also rocking the nation was a scandal involving War Minister John Profumo, Stephen Ward, Christine Keeler, and Mandy Rice-Davies. In October, mainly for reasons of health, Prime Minister Harold MacMillan resigned; his successor was Sir Alec Douglas-Home. Some British imports were enthusiastically adopted by the American public. One of these was the controversial television show, That Was The Week That Was. The show, commonly called TW3, used current events and famous personalities as the subjects of its cutting satire. A second British sensation was the singing group, The Beatles. Distinguished by their long hair and unusual style, the Beatles became wildly acclaimed by both American and British teen-agers.

YEAR'S EVENTS

In Asia, a new nation, Maylasia, emerged, headed by Abdul Rahman. Like many other Asian countries, it was soon beset by threats from its neighbors; namely President Sukarno. A violently controversial personality emerged from strife-torn Viet Nam. Madame Nhu, wife of President Diem's brother, strongly defended her view of her country's religious problems. The power of the Diem regime was short lived, despite Madame Nhu's haughty grandeur. Diem was overthrown by a military coup, and Madame Nhu was a widow taking asylum in Rome. The small nation of Cambodia first requested the stopping of United States' aid, and then broke diplomatic relations with the U.S. Cambodia later decided to discuss the possibility of resuming relations.

France continued her nationalist philosophy by putting obstacles in the path of European unity. Determined to make France a nuclear power, General Charles de Gaulle refused to sign the test ban treaty, opposed the formation of a multi-lateral force by NATO, and did not help forward progress of the Common Market. De Gaulle seemed determined to embarrass the United States. He resumed relations with Cambodia and Red China, and declared that Viet Nam should be neutralized.

Castro remained in control of Cuba though Khruschev's policies were enacted. Supposedly, Castro received a million dollars a day from the Soviet Union; one of the reason's for Castro's visit to Russia was to get more support for his somewhat faltering economy. His country was helped by Britain's sale of buses, and indirectly by sale of U.S. wheat to Russia.

The United States had two important bills to consider; the tax cut, and civil rights. The tax cut was introduced in the hope that it would create jobs and stimulate the economy. To insure equality for the Negro population, the Civil Rights bill was written. Included in this bill was the disputed public accommodations section.

Possible Presidential candidates including: Barry Goldwater, Nelson Rockefeller, Lyndon Johnson, and Margaret Chase Smith began their campaign strategy.

Styles included shifts, empire waists, long flipped hair, and for men narrow lapelled suits.

As always, the sports world was filled with exciting action. The Los Angeles Dodgers won the 1963 World Series in four straight games against the New York Yankees. Sandy Koufax helped the Dodger cause with his outstanding pitching. Texas was the number one football team. Roger Stauback, from the United States Naval Academy received the heisman trophy for the best all-around football player. The United States won at the Davis Cup tennis match in Australia.

Throughout the year, events of great significance happened almost simultaneously, bringing problems as well as progress. The history of 1963 will be a subject for discussion and analization in future years.

JUNIOR HIGH MUSIC ACTIVITIES

JUNIOR HIGH BAND

Junior High Band started the 1963-64 school year with a rigorous program. The band performed at all home Junior High Football games and appeared as the pep band and half-time show for the Senior Varsity's game with Hanover. West York sent 15 students to Red Lion in April for the first All-York County Junior High Band Festival. The recently formed and very active Dance Band played for several dances during the year which proved to be most popular with the students. Our Spring Concert this year featured the "Singing Crusaders," a 52 voice male chorus from Susquehanna University, and our most recent addition to the program, the Wind Ensemble, a 40-pice band of the junior high's finest musical talent.

"THE SOUND

The choral music program in senior high consists of a mixed chorus, a girls' chorus, and a girls' ensemble. The department presents two formal concerts during the school year. The traditional Christmas concert, in cooperation with the band, offers a mixture of sacred and secular music with all choruses participating. The senior high choruses and special ensembles present a spring show that is lighter in mood. In addition to these, the choruses travel to various churches, civic gatherings, and institutions to give special concerts. The department is proud that representatives of its choruses have attended the District and Regional Chorus Festivals.

WEST YORK AREA

The Varsity Band of West York Area High School activated its 1963-64 program by attending Camp Conrad Weiser in preparation for its fall engagements.

Among these activities were performances for football games, a tour to Susquehanna University, the York Halloween Parade, and the Bon Ton Santa Claus Parade.

Following marching season the band readied itself for the coming Concert Season, and all-percussion concert, the first jazz concert and a Concert Band Tour to Pottstown High School and Philadelphia.

During this time new ensembles were formed in addition to the Royaliares and the Percussion Ensemble. Newly activated were the Brass Sextet and a Woodwind Quintet.

Reviewing the bands activities, each band member can reflect, with pride, the many outstanding performances well done.

We began work the spring before our senior year and continued during the summer vacation. The entire staff, now including salesmen, typists, photographers, business managers and editors began long hours of work which continued through the winter months until our last deadline. Speaking of deadlines, it got pretty hectic around 108 about one week before a deadline was due. Actually, we had a lot of fun as well as learning a great deal about publishing a Yearbook.

At West York Area High School, there is a group of energetic, talented girls. These girls devote much time and thought to creating new cheers and sparking school spirit. They attempt to create enthusiasm among the members of the student body, which in turn inspires the team. The West York Cheerleaders are responsible for the student support of the teams in victory and defeat. Serving as the link between the teams and the fans requires dedication and hard work, which our cheerleaders willingly give.

GRIDIRON SUMMARY

The varsity football team, under the superb coaching of Thomas Heckard, backfield coach; Kenneth Ober, line coach; and Robert Bowers, assistant line coach; posted an overall record of six wins and four defeats for the 1963 gridiron season. In league competition, the Bulldogs tumbled six opponents but lost two games, placing second in the final standings. A great amount of effort and determination was shown by the team, and Mr. Heckard said that this year's squad was the best he had ever coached here at West York.

The Bulldogs got off to a slow start by dropping a crucial game to Central (19-13), and were stunned by the Spring Grove team, which upset them (12-6.) After these disappointments the Bulldogs settled down and defeated Kennard-Dale, Littlestown, York Suburban, South Western, and Susquehannock, for a string of five victories, which was one of the longest ever achieved by a West York football team. Included in this group of victories were Littlestown, which had not been beaten since 1953, and York Suburban, which was our homecoming opponent.

In finishing the season, West York lost to Hanover, beat Dallastown, and dropped the last contest to Red Lion.

After the season, the Bulldogs were honored at a banquet sponsored by the Rotary Club. At this time, Lou Hoffman and Frank Heberlig, the team co-captains, were named outstanding back and lineman; they were awarded trophies. Lou Hoffman and Harry Sanders were named to the York County Interscholastic All-Star Team.

Coach Heckard will lose thirteen seniors this year; however, we wish him the best of luck for another successful season in 1964.

JUNIOR HIGH FOOTBALL TEAM

Although the Junior High Team did not finish the season with the best record in York County, they did not have the worst either. Coaches Harvey Jacobs and Ralph Hess are looking forward to next year when they win the Junior High Championship.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM REPEATS AS LEAGUE CHAMPS

One of the best cross country teams ever to represent West York won the YCIAA Cross Country League this year. They turned in an outstanding league record of six wins and no defeats. Coached by Mr. Herbert Schmidt, the team started practicing August 19. After a month of determined work, they took on Annville-Cleona in two exhibition meets. The team dropped these meets but roared back to win all six league meets. West York won the all league play-off held October 21 at the Naval Ordinance Plant with Phil Sipling, Tom Quickel, Mike Zemaitis, Charlie Crisamore, Randy Toomey, and Fred Lehr winning medals. In the District 3 Run at Reading on October 24, Tom Quickel was a medal winner and qualified for the State Run held November 2, at Pennsylvania State University.

HOCKEY TEAM

Girl's Field Hockey was played this year for the first time as a varsity sport in York County. The league consisted of six well-prepared teams.

West York's team was made up of five seniors and seventeen underclassmen with a lot of pep and fight; which resulted in a winning season for the girls with a record of 4-1-1.

For the first game the Lady Bulldogs faced a strong Dover team on the Dover field, but fears soon subsided as the Lassies of West York trounced Dover 4-1. The next game was against a newcomer to the league, York Suburban, but again the hard-fighting lassies came out on top with a 4-2 decision. West York now again faced a toughened Dover team and suffered their only setback of the season.

The following game the Lady Bulldogs faced an unbeaten Spring Grove team, but when the game ended, so ended Spring Grove's unbeaten record. West York next traveled to a much improved Eastern squad at Wrightsville and was held to a 1-1 tie. Spring Grove was our next opponent and the Bulldogs easily garnered a 3-0 victory. The last game was canceled due to rainy weather and not rescheduled.

The girls will never forget: "O.K. take two laps" or "Come on let's get moving, you're not going to a tea party." Nor can they forget the apprehensions before every game.

Congratulations girls to a successful season and GOOD LUCK NEXT YEAR!

BASKETBALL

Before the season, West York's Bulldogs were rated as being at the head of the line to go down the championship road of the York County Interscholastic Basketball League; but as the season began, the Bulldogs found the road impassable with many letdowns.

After losing the first three games of the season, West York's fans' hopes were cracked; then after dumping York they were strengthened only to be shattered by losing the next three.

Darwin Bupp, the Bulldog coach, tried different player changes; but what was sorely needed was a strong fifth man. Four men kept the games close, but the fifth man was never there to pull us through.

Coach Bupp tried different offenses to win, but each team came equipped to beat our man-to-man defense. So as a counter, the defense was changed to a zone defense. The change was coincidental; Adolph Rupp, coach of University of Kentucky, after using man-to-man for 33 years, had changed to zone defense the night before and beat his opponent by twenty points. Coach Bupp's change to zone defense had reverse effect as we lost to York Suburban by twenty points, and this idea was scrapped.

By looking at the record, one would think that the West York team was a second-rate team. This is not true. One might call the Bulldogs a first and a half-rate team. The Bulldogs were never overpowered, and neither mighty Northeastern and Spring Grove could daunt West York as we battled down to the end losing only in the last minute against both teams.

Team members can be proud of their desire, of their fellow players, and of the fact that they participated in a great American sport.

Yoo-Whoo!

He went that away!

Ya can't have it, it's mine.

Number 15 hypnotizes number 22.

Time! Garter trouble for 21.

Don't think they'll let you play, Sharon.

UP COMING VARSITY MEN

For bringing out the spirit, hustle, and all-around emotional drive of a young junior varsity basketball player, West York has one of the better coaches, James L. Jordy.

West York's J.V.'s were about even in the won-lost column, but can by no means be downgraded. The team had good height, with two men 6' 3" and over. Many games were won on the rebounding ability of these boys. Regular use of a full-court press harassed many teams and contributed to the victories.

As all West York teams have a habit of thrilling their fans, the Bullpups had their share of tense, heart-breaking, and exciting games. There were the not-so-peaceful games with Southwestern, the always-behind-but-close games with Central's division champion J.V.'s, and the not-so-close wins over Dover, Susquehannock, and Kennard-Dale.

On the squad of eleven (11) boys, there were two juniors and nine sophomores. With this young material, West Yorkers will have lots of excitement to look forward to for the next two years when these boys win more than "their share" of games.

MR. OBER — COACH

Congratulations to our wrestling team on their excellent record in the past year. They have proven themselves to be one of York County's finest wrestling teams. Hard work, physical fitness and perseverance are the key factors in their success. Guiding the team this year was Mr. D. K. Ober an expert wrestler, both in High School and College, he has shown his talents in putting together a top notch team.

This year's team has had a good balance in the different weight classes. We are equally as strong in the light weight classes as in the heavy weight classes. This balance has proven to be a leading factor in the success of the team. So again congratulations to our team on this fine effort and record.

The Junior High Wrestling Team has again proven itself to be one of the finest in the Junior High Circuit. This year's team was composed of thirty-one matmen, several of them returning from last year's season. The success of the team was partly due to the efforts of Mr. Whedon Myers and Mr. Robert Bowers, the coaches of the 1963-64 season. Hard work and strong determination on the part of the team were the other factors contributing to their success. We in the Senior High can look forward to having many of these fine matmen to represent our wrestling team in the next few years.

Say, have you tried the new Gillette razor?

HOMECOMING

HOMECOMING QUEEN AND
MASTER OF CEREMONIES
Jackie Doll and Jim Kauffman

SUMMARY OF HOMECOMING WEEKEND

Traditional, yet always exciting, are West York High School's annual homecoming activities. The crowning of a queen, the pep rally and bonfire, the football game, and the dance make homecoming weekend a memorable fall event.

For the homecoming queen candidates, this year's excitement began with an assembly on Friday morning, October fourth. Smiling radiantly, Jackie Doll was crowned homecoming queen; and was surrounded by her court which included: Bonnie Clark, Sally Gunnet, Gwenn Gingerick, Linda Stewart, Cherri Riddick, Pam Spahr, Eva Rottmann, Brenda Holland and Joan Frick. Jesters Dave Carley and Tom Delong, and the dance band entertained the homecoming royalty.

Jackie began her reign by riding with her court in the parade which preceded the big pep rally. Against a dark October sky, the huge traditional bonfire crackled, setting the mood for Saturday's game. Speeches by the football players accurately predicted victory, and an exuberant crowd echoed the feeling.

Excitement swelled to a huge tide as the Bulldogs growled a challenge to the York Suburban Trojans. The Bulldogs fought to prove their prowess; Jay Miller made the first touchdown, followed by a point by John Eby. The Trojans managed to shove the score to 7-6, West York, and to 13-7, Surburban. Undaunted, the Bulldogs gained a homecoming victory with a 20-13 final score.

The weekend ended with a victorious homecoming dance, over which Queen Jackie Doll successfully reigned. The final moments of the dance drifted the weekend to a close. For students, particularly seniors, Homecoming, 1963, will symbolize a part of the spirit which will make high school days unforgettable!

"EFFECTIVE
THE KEY PROGRESS

Last October West York Area High School was host to the largest, and judged by many to be the best organized, convention of the Pennsylvania Association of Student Councils. Six hundred delegates attended the conference from all areas of our State.

The steering committee headed by Susan Crouse, State President of the PASC, and James Jordy, Student Council advisor at the West York Area High School, selected this theme for the three-day conference: "Effective Leadership — The Keystone of Progress and Peace."

On the afternoon of October 24th the delegates arrived at the high school, registered, and were promptly taken to their host homes in the community by an efficient team of student drivers. The President's dinner for the advisory board of the PASC, our high school administrators and the student officers of the PASC was held at the Country Club of York that evening. At 7:30 P.M. on Thursday, following the President's dinner, the first general session of the 27th annual convention was called to order. Mr. Donald V. Hock, former mayor of Allentown gave the thought provoking keynote address, The Nine Promises Of A Good Citizen. This session was followed by a "Kick-Off" Dance in our cafeteria.

Friday presented the students with a full schedule of sessions and discussion groups. The President, Susan Crouse, spoke to the convention at the General Session Friday morning on "The Challenge of Tomorrow." The remainder of the morning was spent in discussion groups.

CONVENTION DELEGATES

LEADERSHIP — STONE OF AND PEACE"

Due to the number of students present, it was necessary to serve lunch in two shifts. The group not eating lunch attended a program of entertainment presented for them in the auditorium. Dick Shepp did an excellent job as a master of ceremonies for this show.

Beginning at 6:30 that evening, a dinner-dance was held for the delegates at the Hotel Yorktowne. Bill Collins provided music for the dancing which ended promptly at 11:30. The students returning to the High School in busses.

The final day of convention had come. The third general session on Saturday Morning was primarily a business session. Reports were given, minutes were read, and the election for new state officers was held.

Following these proceedings an international-understanding-program was conducted in which each of the fifty-four exchange students attending took part. Each student introduced himself and recited a plea for world peace in his native language.

Sue adjourned the convention, and within two hours the last delegate had left West York. We feel that many of the students took away with them some of the spirit or ideas exchanged here which will help them in their future work. We believe, also, that our community spirit has been strengthened and that those working on convention committees have found the experience a rewarding one.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"TEN LITTLE INDIANS"

A murder mystery by Agatha Christi was presented by the senior class on November 29, 1963. The Legend, in play form, is summarized in the rhyme:

Ten little Indian boys going out to dine,
One choked his little self and then there were nine.
Nine little Indian boys sat up very late,
One overslept himself and then there were eight.
Eight little Indian boys traveling in Devon,
One got left behind and then there were seven.
Seven little Indian boys went out to cut sticks,
One chopped himself in half and then there were six.
Six little Indian boys playing with a hive,
A bumble bee stung one, and then there were five.
Five little Indian boys going in for law,
One got in Chancery and then there were four.
Four little Indian boys going out to sea,
A red herring swallowed one and then there were three.
Three little Indian boys walking in the zoo,
A big bear hugged one and then there were two.
Two little Indian boys playing with a gun,
One shot himself, and then there was one.
One little Indian boy left all alone,
He went and hanged himself, then there were none.

The many evenings we spent practicing were filled with hard work and lots of fun. Mr. Donley had quite a time transforming us into our roles as Englishmen. It took quite a while for Carson to learn to be a butler and for Glenn to learn to fall off the sofa without the sofa falling on him. At last, the night of the performance arrived. However, "Lady Luck" was not with us. When Wayne exclaimed, "There are only five Indians on the mantle!" there were six; and the suspense filled scene was shattered by laughter. We thought this was bad enough, but disaster struck in the closing scene. Glenn had the rope around Sherry's neck ready to hang her when Bob picked up the gun to shoot him. However, the gun jammed! Sherry came pretty close to being hung before the laughter subsided. Nevertheless, it was a lot of fun, and we'll never forget it!!!

Yep!! I still use that greasy kid's stuff.

I wonder if they notice me?

O.K.!! Who took my glass??

Gee, Dianne even learned to knit!

UNDERCLASS

"And this room rents for only $135 a month."

"Psst, What's my line?"

NINTH GRADE PLAY

The freshman class presented a hilarious play entitled "It's Great To Be Crazy" directed by Mr. Rodney Swartz. The play was composed of love, suspense and comedy. Betty Lou Maxwell sent a letter to a company to have her ancestors traced hoping that she would be related to Elizabeth Barret Browning. The relay to the letter proved quite shocking. Many humorous events such as pictures moving, chairs rocking, and strange people appearing followed. The climax of the play revealed the mysterious happenings and unusual people. The play put on before a full house seemed to be a great success.

"Our group had 20% more cavities!"

DRAMATISTS

No, that's my line.

Well!

Why does an elephant . . . "

TENTH GRADE PLAY

On Saturday, March 7th, the Sophomore Class presented a fast-moving comedy, "The Magic Touch" in the High School Auditorium.

The story is that of a confirmed tomboy of 15, Bobbette Braddock, who is at the onset of the play the leader of the "Dirty Dozen" football team.

By having a fashion show in her home, Bobbette's mother hopes to convert her daughter from a dirty-faced "Toughboy" into an attractive young lady.

Not only is Bobbette to model extremely feminine fashions in the show but a Miss Frieda Fisher moves in on the "Dirty Dozen" changing them from a ferocious lot into lovesick puppies, all begging Freida to teach them to dance.

Bobbette reacts to these stressful stimuli by running away.

Her return home, rescue of the "Dirty Dozen" and winning the first prize in the fashion show leads Bobbette to realize that a girl of 15 is in reality a young lady and from that time forward she looks and acts like one.

YORK DIVISION

Borg-Warner Corporation

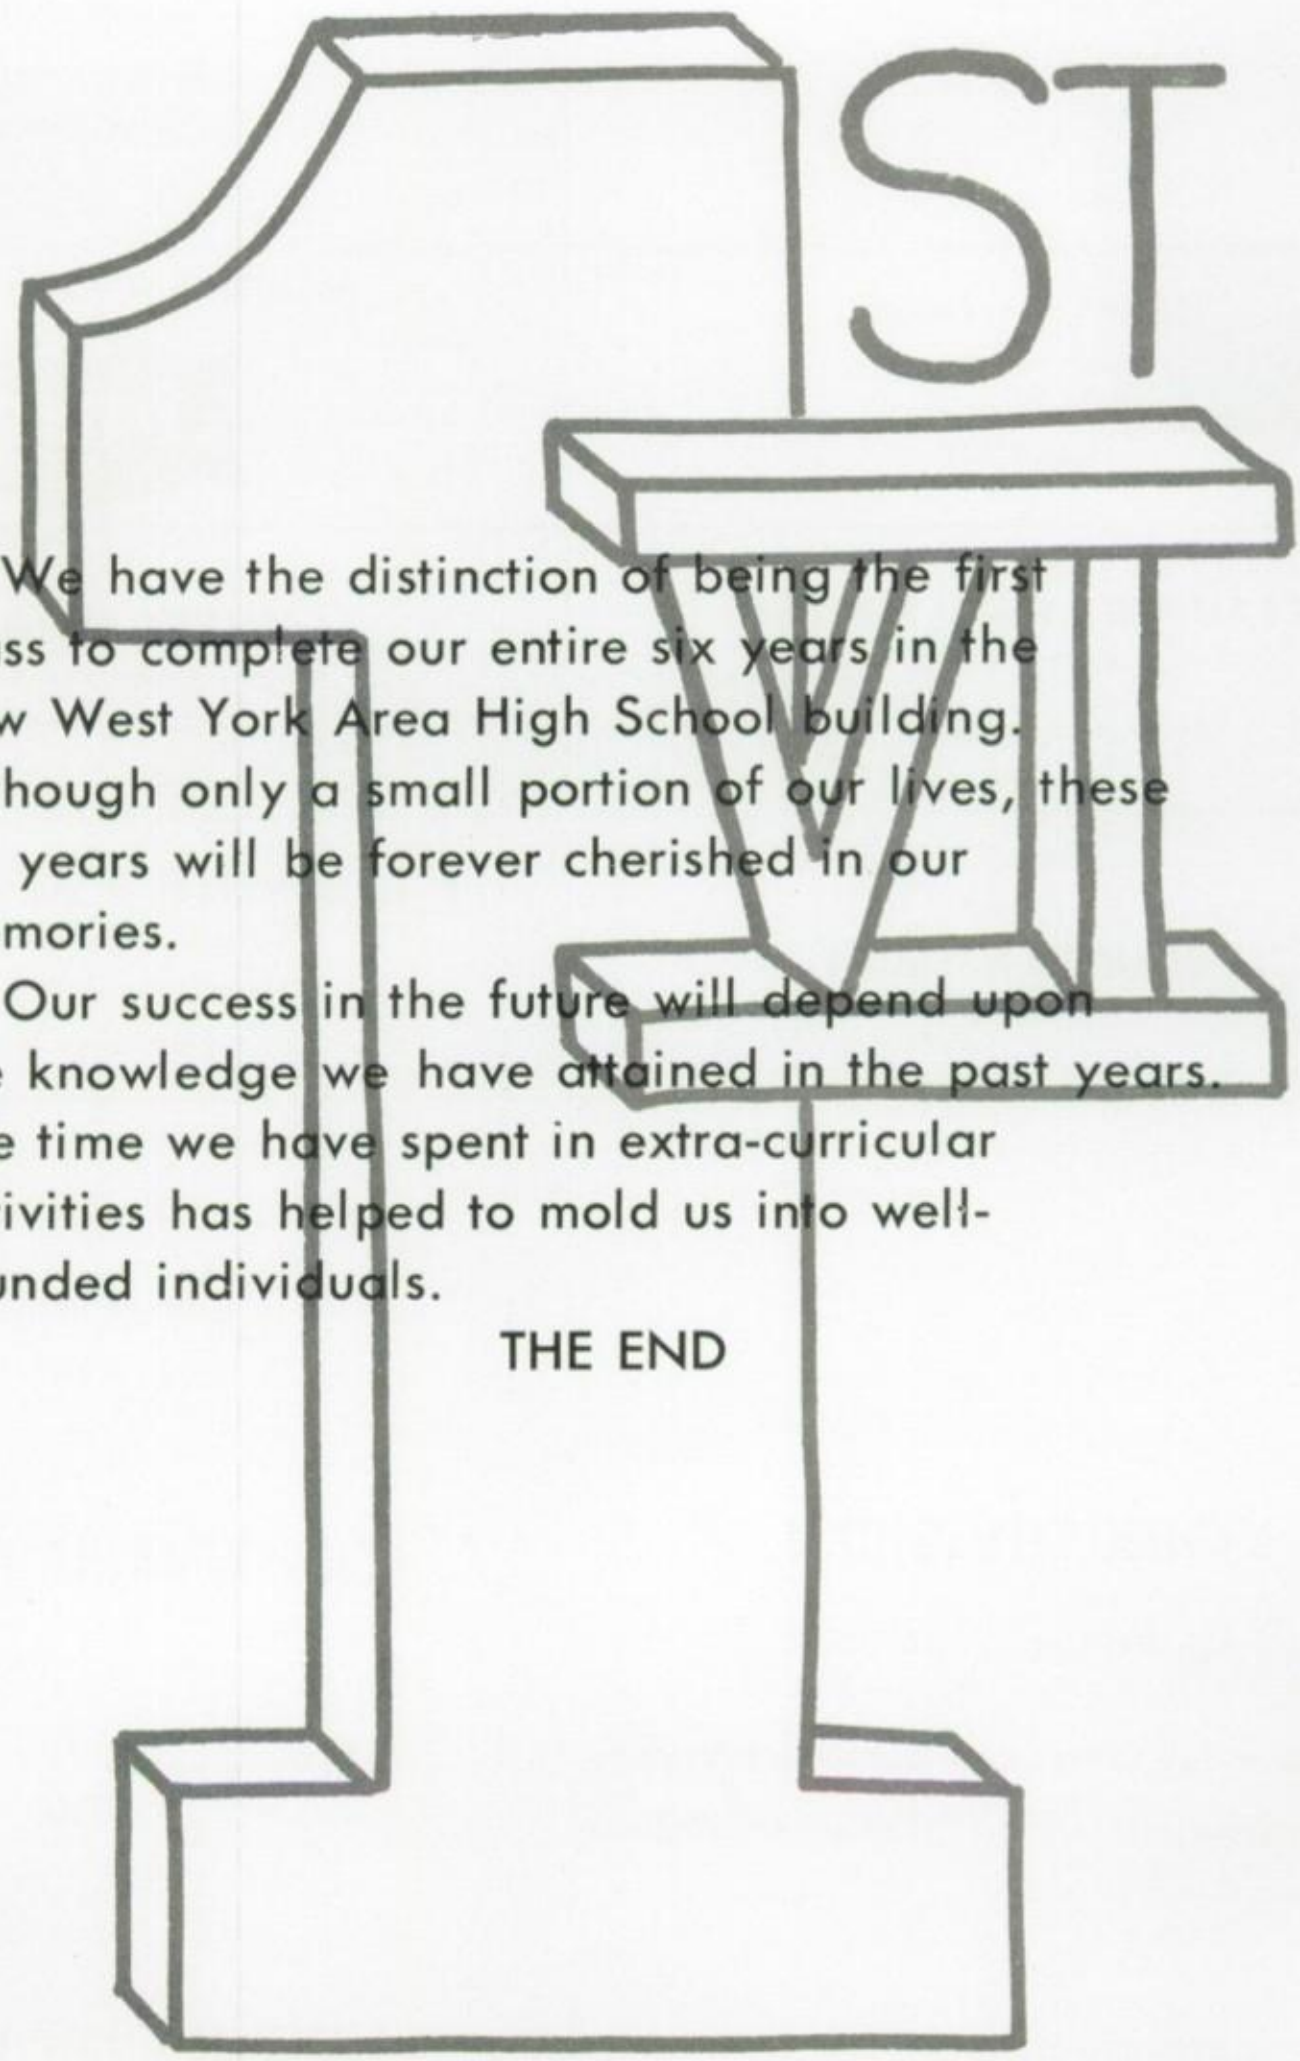
Almost every American benefits everyday through products of Borg-Warner and its divisions.

Compliments of

PENNSYLVANIA PLYWOOD

and

LUMBER COMPANY, INC.



We have the distinction of being the first class to complete our entire six years in the new West York Area High School building. Although only a small portion of our lives, these six years will be forever cherished in our memories.

Our success in the future will depend upon the knowledge we have attained in the past years. The time we have spent in extra-curricular activities has helped to mold us into well-rounded individuals.

THE END
